It is my pleasure as the President of WFSICCM to welcome everyone to the 2018 New Year. During the very successful WFSICCM Congress in November 2017, the organization leadership and new Council members were elected. John Myburgh as Secretary General and Arzu Topeli as Treasurer join me in guiding the WFSICCM for the next 2 years. I am excited to welcome new Council members that increase the diversity of leaders of the organization along with the continuing Council members.

In just a short period of time, Council members have expressed ideas and suggestions that will help develop objectives for WFSICCM and shape the work ahead of us. Several areas of emphasis were identified.

- Professional evolution of the organization. Revision and updating of the constitution are planned along with development of policies to guide the business of the organization.
- Engagement and communication. WFSICCM needs more and better involvement with member societies with a particular emphasis on bringing new societies on board and liaising with important groups such as young clinicians and future leaders. Social media will play a large role in achieving this goal.
- Contribution to the field of Critical Care. The greatest need identified by member societies is education and resources to utilize knowledge. WFSICCM plans to move forward with projects involving education that will particularly help to meet needs in resource-limited areas. Facilitation of global research and collaboration was also identified as an important goal for WFSICCM.
- Diversity. Diversity of professions, cultures, gender, and thought will be a goal that encompasses all actions and projects of WFSICCM.

We have a lot of work to do and it will take time. Strategic planning, focus and prioritization are needed to be effective and efficient. We are organizing the Council into committees to work more efficiently on these goals for the next 2 years. I am excited to be a part of this journey and look forward to new friends and colleagues that I meet along the way.

“We will never make a journey of a thousand miles by fretting about how long it will take or how hard it will be. We make the journey by taking each day step by step and then repeating it again and again until we reach our destination.”

13th World Congress – A Successful Event!

The 13th World Congress of the World Federation of Societies of Intensive and Critical Care Medicine was held November 8-11, 2017 in Rio de Janeiro Brazil. Dr. Álvaro Réa-Neto served as the Scientific Meeting Chair and led the work of the conference committee.

The Congress brought together a historical number of medical intensivists and health professionals: more than 4,700 participants from approximately 70 countries enjoyed a rich scientific program.

The theme – “No Frontiers for Excellence” – reflected well on the relevant topics for the fastest growing specialty in the health sector. By bringing together participants from all continents, it was possible to discuss changes and the future of intensive care, planning the next steps, and exchanging both theoretical and practical experiences.

The program was held simultaneously in 14 different rooms, with industry-sponsored satellite symposiums and hands-on activities. The World Congress also had a record number of papers submitted and presented. There were more than 1,000 abstracts approved and presented in three days. The event was attended by 261 national and 94 international speakers and 47 exhibiting companies.

The event was most successful and Dr. Álvaro Réa-Neto and the conference planning team are to be congratulated!

Society Profile

The Medical Intensive Care Society – Bosnia and Herzegovina

The Society was established in 2016 with the principle objective of enabling the progression of intensive care medicine in Bosnia and Herzegovina. The most recent history of conflict in the region restricted the development of new medical disciplines and so for example in 2008 there were no non-surgical intensive care units in Bosnia and Herzegovina. At that time most critically ill patients (more than 80%) did not have access to mechanical ventilation.

With international support from intensive care practitioners from France, USA and Germany units were established in Sarajevo and Banja Luka. From these early beginnings and with the establishment of additional units in Tulza and Mostar, there are now 72 ICU beds in the country.

After the creation of this limited intensive care presence a group of dedicated and enthusiastic specialists formed a Society. The first intensive care sub-specialists have been certified with the assistance of faculty from Slovenia, Croatia, Germany and USA. A number of young physicians from internal medicine, anaesthesiology, pulmonary medicine and neurology have now committed to sub-specialty critical care training. In addition to working on improved access and improved outcomes for critically ill patients, the Society is planning a significant expansion in educational and research activities. These include the annual regional ICU symposium "BH-ICU", led by Dr Ognjen Gajic and Dr Emir Festic (now in its ninth year) allowing networking for education, research and quality improvement among intensive care practitioners from Slovenia, Serbia, Croatia and Bosnia and Herzegovina.

The leadership of the Medical Intensive Care Society – Bosnia and Herzegovina are confident that membership of the World Federation of Societies of Intensive and Critical Care Medicine will further help to boost the specialty of intensive care in Bosnia and Herzegovina and in the Balkan region.
Congratulations to the members of the WFSICCM Task Forces that completed their work and had manuscripts published. The work efforts of the task force members are most appreciated as the reports reflect updates in the field of critical care globally!
